

COMBINING TO WIN IN CAUCUS

Reported Lenroot, Stephenson, Cooper And Hatten Men Will Unite To Defeat Esch Or Davidson.

FIGHT HAS BECOME INTERESTING

Caucus On Monday Night May Settle The Aspirations Of Many Of The Candidates---Vote On Tuesday Next.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 12.—Persistent rumors are abroad today that candidates Cooper, Hatten, Lenroot and Stephenson have entered into an agreement which will result in one of them getting the votes of all the other candidates, thereby insuring their election. The alleged combination of Esch with the Connor-Davidson people and aid of the stalwarts. Conferences are occurring hourly today and manifestly "something is doing," but who is to be the beneficiary of the "get together" of the La Follette people is not known.

Until this morning it seemed assured that the republican caucus Monday night would make no nomination, but much confidence prevails now that after one or two ballots one of the La Follette candidates will remain against Esch, who will have not less than 45 votes, representing his own personal seventh district following the votes controlled by Connor and Davidson, and the stalwarts. Friends of the Barker bill, to regulate the sanitary conditions in hotels, tried in the assembly to secure a reconsideration of the vote by which it was defeated yesterday, but failed after a long parliamentary wrangle.

It is now said that Davidson will be withdrawn and an effort made to defeat the more pronounced La Follette candidates by massing all the Davidson and stalwart strength for Esch. Play for the democratic votes began when it was declared by democrats that if the republicans made no choice in the caucus next Monday night and the legislature became tied up in a deadlock they would break the deadlock by throwing their strength to some of the republican candidates.

Esch men had a caucus Thursday afternoon to pledge the halfbreed members to stick in spite of stalwart support. The other candidates immediately began planning to meet the move. A caucus was held between Messrs. Cooper, Lenroot, and Hatten in the latter's headquarters early in the evening and later there was a conference in the state treasurer's office, which did not adjourn until after midnight. Among those present were Candidates Cooper, Hatten, and Lenroot, J. H. Puelicher and E. W. LeRoy, representing Isaac Stephenson; W. J. McElroy, Speaker Ekern, Charles Crownhart, W. H. Dick, C. C. Gittings, and State Treasurer Dahl.

Plan to Defeat Esch.
The result of the conference is not known, but it is said an agreement practically was reached not to permit Esch to get the prize through stalwart support, and, if necessary to defeat him, to join hands in favor of some one of their candidates.

The Esch men also held a conference this afternoon and decided to make an aggressive fight. It is doubtful, however, that the stalwarts can be delivered solidly, as it is known they are divided in their preferences. Senator Bird is the original Stephenson man of the legislature. Assemblymen Carpenter and Ledvina are understood to be on record for Hatten.

Supporters of Esch today said the plan of the opposition is to eliminate the candidates having the fewest votes in caucus until only Stephenson and Lenroot remain. Then the Superior man is to throw his support to Stephenson, according to Senator La Follette's wish.

It is intimated the plan to be tried in caucus Monday night is the same which miscarried in conference on Thursday. In that meeting the plan was to get representatives of all five candidates in conference and then force through a resolution to eliminate weak candidates. On the first ballot the man having the smallest number of votes was to withdraw until it stood between two candidates.

Would Eliminate the Weak.
This plan would eliminate Congressman Cooper of Racine, who had only eight votes on the first ballot, they say. The next ballot would eliminate former Senator Hatten, who has about ten votes, and the next vote would take away Congressman Esch, who has fourteen votes, leaving the field to Lenroot and Stephenson. This would leave a field for the alleged combination which Esch men believe they have discovered. Lenroot to withdraw in favor of Stephenson, who, in turn, promises him support in the contest two years hence.

Esch supporters, after a long conference yesterday with Congressman Esch, declared they will not become factors to such a combination, and announced their intention to stand by Esch, and will not be bound by a resolution eliminating the weaker candidates.

All hopes of another meeting of the rivals has been abandoned, although Senator Browne, a supporter of Lenroot, made an attempt to have the meeting adjourned until a later time. The candidates kept away from the capitol today, and the fight from now on until the caucus Monday night will be an attempt by candidates to secure individual pledges.

Neither is it directly affiliated with other associations, though it happens that many of its members are connected with other movements and societies of a similar nature—notably the Inter-Parliamentary Union, founded in Great Britain in 1887, and the Association for International Conciliation, founded by the Baron d'Esternelle de Constant, who will be present at the gathering in this city.

FORAKER FLAYED
BY HIS ENEMIESHIS SECRETARY HAS GIVEN OP-POSITION AN OPENING.

GENERAL WASHINGTON NEWS

What Nation's Capital Does When Congress Is Not in Session.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Evidence of the activity of Senator Foraker's political enemies here in Washington has cropped out in connection with an effort made by the senator's secretary, Charles E. Alden, to have a newly appointed negro rural mail carrier at Batavia, O., dropped. The carrier, Charles A. Jackson, was appointed from the civil service list of eligibles and shortly after he began making regular trips considerable objection to him arose among the patrons of the route. Secretary Alden received letters of protest, according to his statement, and immediately took the matter up with the Civil Service commission. It was too late for the commission to do anything and he was referred to the postoffice department. Here the matter was bandied back and forth and finally was taken to Postmaster General Meyer, who in turn detailed the news to Secretary Cortelyou, who hurried to the White House with it. In view of the connection of Senator Foraker with the Brownsville affair, an effort has been made to give the matter the widest publicity in an effort to convict the senator of inconsistency in his course of defending the black man. It seems to have made no difference that Senator Foraker has denied emphatically that he had any knowledge of the matter and that his secretary has declared with equal emphasis that he undertook the case entirely on his own responsibility, for the friends of Senator Foraker are actively repeating the report. This is merely an indication of how bitter is the feud now existing in the camps of the various presidential candidates, and a promise of how sanguinary will be the political warfare once the fight really gets into the open.

It is announced by members of the Illinois congressional delegation who are at present in town, that a wonderful rejuvenation of river traffic between Chicago and St. Louis is taking place. The river and harbor appropriation bill, carried an item of $50,000 for improvements to the Illinois river, and as a result Commodore Wallace of Henry, Ill., is organizing a transportation company among the shippers along the river to operate a fleet of fifteen barges between the two cities for the transportation of merchandise and grain. It is said that the merchants along the Illinois valley are taking great interest in the plan and a number of rival fleets probably will be established. In addition, R. H. Mohl of Peoria, Ill., is about to build a passenger and express boat which will have a speed of 20 miles an hour and be capable of carrying 100 passengers. Other boats of similar speed and capacity are said to be in contemplation. This activity in boat-building and water transportation is not confined to the Illinois river, but is a marked feature throughout the middle west. The fact that the government has given a belated acknowledgment of the importance of waterways development, an acknowledgment that the National Rivers & Harbors congress has taken as a guaranty that the national law-makers yet will concede the commercial importance of accepting the organization's contention that not less than $50,000,000 a year be expended in keeping open these highways of commerce. The saving to shippers in reduced freight rates each year will more than pay for this expenditure.

Announcement was made this week by the state department that Charles Denby of Indiana, chief clerk, is to succeed Linn Rodgers of Ohio, as American consul general at Shanghai. Mr. Rodgers is to be transferred to Havana as consul general there, the transfer being in the way of a promotion, although the salaries of the two posts are alike, being $8,000 a year. It is probable that the change will not take effect before July 1st. Mr. Denby is especially fitted for the post. He is a son of the late Charles Denby of Evansville, who at one time was minister to China. Mr. Denby was secretary of the legation during his father's incumbency and is thoroughly conversant with China's customs and well schooled in the language of the country.

If the names of all the presidential possibilities offered these days by admiring friends or wily enemies, were compiled and issued in the form of a book, it would comprise a volume that would make the New York city directory resemble a patent medicine almanac by comparison. J. T. Hackworth of Ottumwa, Ia., trotted out two well-known Iowa candidates for the presidential race and introduced a third for good measure in the person of Senator Jonathan B. Dolliver. Mr. Hackworth pins his faith to ex-

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, although he questions whether Mr. Shaw's migration to New York is Governor Cummings, although he acknowledges him to have received a very black political eye by a tremendous falling off of the republican vote in his race for office in Iowa. Almost hysterically Mr. Hackworth called on the national capital to "keep its eye on Senator Dolliver." The senator, he says, is "as good a calligrapher as those he mentioned, and with the elimination of just one man, there is no reason why Iowa's junior representative in the upper house of congress should not be on an equal footing with the rest of the field. Now that the political prognostication season is on it is up to some one to tune up for laudation of Senator Beveridge and it seems a pity that the effective-cent John Wesley Gaines has not yet had a champion. Truly, the silly season in politics is on."

Announcement was made this week that Dr. Richard D. Harlan, son of Associate Justice Harlan of the supreme bench and formerly president of Lake Forest college, Lake Forest, Ill., has been engaged by the George Washington university to take charge of the field work in the campaign for an endowment fund to establish the university in the position it long has sought to occupy. While Dr. Harlan's plans are not yet made public, it is understood that he will visit practically every state in the union and all of the great cities in an effort to enlist the financial and moral support of patriotic American men and women. While the great philanthropists, whose contributions to the cause of education have made the world gasp, will be invited to contribute, special effort will be made to build up the fund by small contributions. It is intended that the proposed national university will be typically American in the broadest sense of the word, and to this end every effort will be made to obtain as large a list of subscribers as possible. In this way, a national interest in the institution will be fostered and its influence will be felt more strongly throughout the entire nation.

Great preparations are being made, musically, for the opening of the Jamestown exposition on the 26th of the month. President Roosevelt will formally open the big fair, and the Choral society of Washington has been engaged to sing the opening ode. Efforts are being made to secure the services of John Philip Sousa, who, with his wife and daughter, is at present at the Homestead hotel at Hot Springs, Va., within easy reach of Jamestown. It is not known just how far these negotiations have progressed, but it is feared that the distinguished director's services cannot be obtained, owing to the fact that he is planning another trip abroad with his organization. There is undisguised regret that the United States Marine band will not be available throughout the term of the fair because of the previous engagements made for concert work. It had been hoped that this organization might appear in concert at Jamestown on the occasion of the visits of the foreign fleets.

Uncle Sam hereafter will guarantee to the world the purity of his meat products. In a circular issued by the department of agriculture this week, it was prescribed that after April 15th all persons shipping meats, lard or other animal substances packed and cured before October 1, 1906, must first obtain written permission of the department after having submitted absolute proof of the purity of the food and the fact that it had been prepared without the use of any prohibitive preservative. The railroads transporting such shipments are also required to have an affidavit from the shipper certifying that the meat is in good condition and fit for human food, the affidavit to be forwarded immediately to the department here. Because of the great falling off in interstate and export trade the packing appear to be welcoming these rigid rules for the protection of the public. That they have determined on taking the public completely into their confidence by disclosing to them the methods of manufacture and preparation of animal foods, is evidenced by the fact that the National Packers' exposition, to be held in Chicago May 1st, has been widely advertised and is to be attended by representatives of many foreign governments. The administration is also interested in this closer relationship between the manufacturers of food supplies and the consumers, and President Roosevelt has agreed to press a button at the White House starting the machinery of the exposition in Chicago's big coliseum.

It would be amusing, if it were not annoying, the manner in which Chile is sulking over the refusal of this country to raise its representation there to an embassy. As a result, Chile has not replaced its minister, whom it withdrew on the pretext that he was to attend the Pan-American congress in Rio Janeiro last summer. Up to a day or so ago it was understood that some decision had been reached in the matter, and that Herbert G. Squiers, present minister to Panama, was to be made ambassador to Chile. The fact that Mr. Squiers' name was mentioned in connection with the rumor gave it dignity, for his services in the past have been of so important a nature that it is recognized his present post is merely a temporary stepping-stone to higher diplomatic honors. Minister Squiers retired from the arm to enter the service in 1894. His knowledge of military affairs was provided during the siege of Peking in 1900, when he was chief of staff to Sir Claude MacDonald, and for his services in defending the foreign legations he received the thanks of the British government. Later he was minister to Cuba, resigning in 1905, and was appointed last year to the post at Panama, where he has further distinguished himself.

Chimney Fire Alarm: Shortly before six o'clock last evening a chimney fire in the ground floor apartments of the Fredendall flats, occupied by Charles Russell, caused hasty summons to be sent to the department. Considerable excitement prevailed throughout the building; when the nature of the trouble was learned, but fears were soon quieted and the blaze extinguished without serious damage to the property.

AWARDS IN TWELFTH
H. S. MEDAL CONTESTMiss Erma Shoemaker Again Won the Loomis Trophy for Declamations
—Wm. Spohn Captured Matheson Prize.

Supt. Harvey Clark of the State School for the Blind, and Professors Statton and Davis of Beloit College were the judges of the various competitions in the twelfth annual medal contest at the High school building last evening, and their awards were as follows:
Mahoney medal for poetry—William Tieman.
Loomis medal for orations—William Spohn (1st) and John Underwood (2d).
Recorder medal for extemporaneous speaking—Leo Atwood.
Loomis medal for declamations—Miss Erma Shoemaker (1st), Miss Florence Spooner (2d), Miss Josephine Doty (3d).
Matheson prize for essay on "The Ideal College"—Won by William Spohn. Honorable mention for Miss Mabel Isaac.

An audience which filled the auditorium inspired the contestants to their best efforts and all who strove for honors acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner. The program was opened with the splendid rendition of a march, "Give the Countersign," by the High school orchestra led by Mrs. Hyde. The contestants in the oratorical contest all chose familiar themes of history as their subjects. John Underwood speaking on "Napoleon Bonaparte," James Roherty on "Toussaint L'Ouverture," and William Spohn on "A Warrior of Peace." The efforts all showed careful preparation. Harold Yahn, John Underwood, Leo Atwood, and William Spohn participated in the extemporaneous speaking, and displayed a high order of mental agility in grasping quickly the subjects assigned and presenting their thoughts and arguments in logical sequence and adequate words.

The Girls' Glee Club, assisted by Miss Ruth Wheeler, pianist, and Miss Edith Soverhill, violinist, pleased with a very enjoyable selection, "Lovely Rose," after which the declamatory contest was inaugurated. Miss Josephine Doty gave a very pleasing reading of "Mice at Play." Miss Florence Spooner likewise made a most favorable impression with her presentation of "The Swan Song." Miss Erma Shoemaker, the winner of several previous contests, demonstrated in the interpretation of "For His Mother's Sake," that she had measurably improved in method and understanding. The Matheson prize was a gold piece offered for best essay from a member of the senior class on what was to be desired of the higher institutions of learning. It was offered by A. E. Matheson and Beloit College faculty members passed on the papers, selecting thirteen for honorable mention. The program closed with the announcement of the decisions of judges and the award of the medals.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, April 13, 1867.—Religious.—Prof. J. J. Blaisdell of Deloit College will preach in the Presbyterian church tomorrow.

Passion Week—Services in the Episcopal Churches of this city will be held every day of Passion Week which begins tomorrow.

A Pleasant Surprise.—A large number of ladies and gentlemen took occasion last evening to pay their respects in an informal manner to the family and Rev. S. Farrington. About half past eight o'clock the house was surrounded by a company in force, and after a brief parley with the servant girl, the domicile was carried by assault, the occupants offering but a slight and ineffectual resistance. The visit was not only a surprise but partook of the nature of a donation as well, each was armed with evidence of the fact that a minister and his family are mortal, and that their comfort and happiness are increased by due regard to the needs of the physical system. After an hour spent in social conversation the large company bade their pastor good night and returned to their respective homes.

Got Him in a Tight Place.—Yesterday afternoon the Sheriff brought before the police a colored boy arrested for vagrancy. The counsel for the lad procured an adjournment of the case and the justice set about making the proper commitment papers to enable the sheriff to lock him up. The documents were completed and in good faith handed to Capt. Pulnam, who took them and in glancing over them, discovered that his own name had, by mistake, been inserted instead of the boy's. Upon this he turned to a constable present, and said: "You must serve these papers; I can't. As disagreeable as it may be I will obey quietly." At this point the justice began to smell something burning and upon getting possession of the papers discovered what it was. The Captain came near having a dose of his own medicine.

Before The Footlights.

"Girl of the Streets"—Miss Katherine Crego, who is seen at the Myers theatre this afternoon and again tonight, as "Kit" in "The Girl of the Streets," is by no means a stranger to local theatre-goers. Among the roles in which Miss Crego has been seen are: Lady Babbie in "The Little Minister," Helene Gray in "Out of the Fold," Flavia in "Prisoner of Zenda," Thelma in "Thelma," Bessie in "A Texas Steer," Madge Brerly in "Old Kentucky," "Tennessee" in "Tennessee's Partner," "Anna" in "Way Down East." It is said that Miss Crego exceeds all her previous efforts and reaches her greatest success as "Kit," in the girl of the streets, in the play of that title. "Kit" is a most delightful character and cannot help but appeal to every woman with a sympathetic heart. The piece is enlivened with numerous specialties, funny situations, etc.

Myers Theatre, Monday, April 15.—Last night at the opera-house Frank Mahara's minstrels gave the initial performance of a two nights stand. The largest crowd at 11 per cent has been in the opera-house this year, was present and the repeated encores meant anything, the majority of those in attendance were pleased and highly entertained.

These minstrels are all colored people, talented in their lines, and some very clever specialties were introduced. Vocal and instrumental music abounded and was excellent. The colored people as a race are endowed by nature with true voices, full of natural harmony, and the oldtime selections, given by a male quartet last night brought out some beautiful harmony. There is a bass singer with the troupe who has a magnificent voice and the second tenor is fine. Their specialties are all entertaining, one of the best being a colored juggler.—Daily Journal, Tulleride, Colo., Oct. 3, 1906.

No attraction touring the west this season is meeting with greater success than "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," the music play from the clever pen of young Geo. M. Cohan, which will be presented here in a few days under the management of Klaw & Erlanger. From everywhere come reports of crowded houses and brilliant audiences, while the papers of the south have been extravagant in their praise of company and production.

Corinne is given credit for giving the best performance of her career, while the rest of a large and capable cast is spoken in the critics' most emphatic terms of approval.

Swanson & Co.'s Moving Pictures—No matter how much you pay, or where you go, it will be hard to find an entertainment equal in variety of more pleasing than Swanson & Co.'s moving pictures which will be the attraction at the Myers theatre on Saturday, April 26, matinee and evening. With the new model machines, the steady light obviates the trouble experienced with the old style machines and the pictures are so clear that everyone is delighted. As Swanson & Co. is the largest firm in the city of Chicago, it goes without saying that the coming engagement will be one of merit.

Truth is stranger than fiction" is an old adage; the truth of which has been demonstrated many times without number. It was while casually reading a newspaper that Miss Lillian Mortimer, the author of "No Mother to Guide Me," came across a news item that gave her the idea of the play that is again serving her for a starring vehicle this season. In this play which comes to the Myers theatre on Thursday, April 18, there is a character which is a novelty to the stage in the person of a crude, uneducated child of the city, but with whom Mother Nature has dealt kindly in giving her a wonderful intuitive faculty of reading character that serves her many times in good stead. It is this oddity of the human family that Miss Mortimer will portray. Instead of the emotional roles which this gifted actress has seen fit to delineate in past seasons this year will find Miss Mortimer playing a low comedy role which should earn her for her high repute as those parts she has been seen in during the past years of her starring career. Miss Mortimer feels that the public wants entertaining. They do not go to the theatre to be educated although every play should have a moral; but the public seek diversionment from the labors of the day and find their greatest satisfaction and pleasure in witnessing a performance that gives them a hearty laugh, interspersed with a story of human interest.

LITTLE DOING ON TOBACCO MART

Nearly All of 1906 Has Been Picked—Weather Too Cold for Planting.

The taking over of last season's tobacco crop has now reached a stage of scattering transactions embracing the remnants and odds, and ends whenever they can be lifted at cheap figures. It is generally conceded that but a small fraction now remains in the growers' hands, and the amount to be carried over will not exceed that of a year ago. Recent sales range much below the average prices. Warehouse handling is drawing to a close at the packing points. The United Cigar Mfg. Co. have closed their warehouses in Edgerton and Portage during the week and the one at Lodi finishes soon. A few firms have some bundle stock on hand for some few weeks more however.

The weather of the week continues too cold for planting of the seed beds and so far but little work in this line is accomplished.

"The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and honors, for but one thing.

"And that is Initiative.

"What is Initiative?

"I'll tell you: It is doing the right thing without being told.

"But next to doing the thing, without being told is to do it when you are told once. That is to say, carry the message to Garcia; those who can carry a message get high honors, but their pay is not always in proportion.

"Next, there are those who never do a thing until they are told twice: such get no honors and small pay.

"Next, there are those who do the right thing only when necessity kicks them from behind, and these get indifference instead of honors, and a pittance for pay. This kind spends most of its time polishing a bench with a hard-luck story.

"Then, still lower down in the scale than this, we have the fellow who will not do the right thing even when some one goes along to show him how and stays to see that he does it; he is always out of a job, and receives the contempt he deserves, unless he has a rich Pa, in which case Destiny patiently awaits around the corner with a stuffed club.

"To which class do you belong?"

Elbert Hubbard in "The Philistine."

"Fra Albertes," of Roycroft fame, usually "strikes twelve" on any proposition discussed, and so in his definition of "Initiative," he expresses in a brief sentence the full meaning of the word as applied to everyday life.

But the rank and file of humanity are not engaged in a struggle for the world's "big prizes," either in money or honors. The most of us work under direction, where the mission is well accomplished, when the work in hand is faithfully performed.

In the great retail store of Marshall Field and company are 6000 employees. They are a busy and intelligent army of people, apparently engaged in doing the right thing all the time, but they are checked in and out of the building every day, and a record of how they spend their leisure time, is an open book in the company's office.

They are not asked to bring to the business very much in the way of initiative, whether heads of departments or salesmen behind the counter. The only thing demanded is faithful, intelligent service.

The National Cash Register company, located at Dayton, Ohio, also employs 6000 people. This great industry enjoys the reputation of being conducted along humanitarian lines, which are ideal in many respects.

Libraries, amusements, recreation and many other things are furnished for the comfort and pleasure of employees, while block after block of comfortable homes, owned by thrifty workmen, are evidences of contentment and substantial prosperity.

The people of Dayton appear to lack appreciation, and the company has been subjected to all sorts of criticism. The pulpit has denounced methods employed, while the city council has been busily engaged in annoying the company by passing obnoxious measures.

Mr. Patterson, the manager, finally became thoroughly disgusted and decided to move the plant to some other city, as many flattering offers were open for acceptance.

Before taking definite action he concluded to try an experiment, and so 1600 invitations to a banquet, were sent out to the business and professional men of the city. A liberal response filled the large assembly hall, connected with the works, and for an hour, Mr. Patterson enjoyed the satisfaction of telling his neighbors what he thought of them.

It was the greatest tongue-lashing that an intelligent audience ever received, and there was no chance to talk back, for they were his guests. As he proceeded with his arraignment his hearers discovered that there was but little to be said in defense, and when they filed into the spacious dining-room, adjoining, and were served by 200 white-aproned employees to as choice a dinner as money could buy, they were the most humbled and subdued class of men that ever got together.

The National Cash Register company will remain in Dayton, because at the head of it is a man of great initiative, possessing the ability not only to establish and develop a great industry, but to transform adverse public sentiment as well. These men are rare, and they belong in a class by themselves, where the great prizes of life are won.

There are plenty of men connected with the Cash Register company, who occupy positions of trust and responsibility, and these are the men who represent the great army of American workmen, who are competent to carry a message to Garcia, as was the young man whom President McKinley called from the ranks of the army, during the Spanish-American war.

Marshall Field enjoyed a world-wide reputation as a merchant prince, but he was as good a judge of men as merchandise, and so he called to his assistance, and educated a class of men who were competent to take up his work and carry it on, after he dropped out.

The upper story of this great establishment is a dining hall, where thousands of people lunch every day. Attention was called the other day to that "large woman of commanding appearance" in the grill room. Who is she? The manager of this department in all its detail, and earning well the $10,000 salary which she receives. And so from the top floor to basement are men and women in charge of every department who possess great ability, but back of them all is the man of initiative, to whom they are accountable. Yet this man would be powerless of accomplishment, unless back of him was the army of faithful and intelligent workers.

The most of us belong to the rank and file, and it is well for humanity that this is the case. There is room, in this great army, for a limited number of officers and commanders, but the man behind the gun is as necessary as the commander on the bridge. There is room and a place for every man to work out his destiny, if he will, and the measure of responsibility allotted to him depends upon his own ability to carry it.

Some of the turpentine forests in the south are worked by convicts from the state prison. They are men who do what they are told to do when a guard stands over them to enforce the order—time-servers of the lowest type, yet represented in every community by men who accomplish, but little unless closely watched.

You have seen them on the street, in the factories and stores, traveling at the bag end of the procession in every department of toil. Many of them wear a union badge, and it is the only emblem of distinction that they will ever possess.

A little higher up the scale is another class who through carelessness and inattention are constantly handicapped. They never learn by observation, the greatest teacher in the great school of life, and so they never get to the front in any calling.

But the great army of workers, be it said to their credit, are found in the ranks of willing, intelligent toilers, where individual conscience and laudable ambition prompts to faithful service.

The prizes of life are relative in value and success is possible to every worker. There is being placed on the pension list every year, a squad of men who retire from the cab, after 40 years of faithful service. They enjoy the full measure of success and have nothing to regret, in harking back through the years of activity.

So it is in every calling. The failures are always recorded, but success is so commonplace that it excites but little interest. Faithful, intelligent work is the genius of success, and it is within the grasp of every toiler.

MORTUARY NEWS.

Martin Dunn.

No arrangements for the funeral of the late Martin Dunn have as yet been settled upon but it is very probable that the services will be held Tuesday.

The deceased's son, Charles Dunn, who is traveling through North Carolina in the interests of the West Publishing company, has not as yet been definitely located and the funeral will not be held until he can be communicated with. Mr. Dunn's sister, Mrs. Ellen Carroll of Monroe, is already here.

The death of Mr. Dunn removed from Janesville a man who not only had hosts of friends in the city but through the entire nation. He was one of the oldest hotel clerks in the state, having presided behind the desks of the old Stevens' house and American House in early days and after the building of the Myers House had charge of that hostelry's office for twenty-eight years. He was always pleasant and affable and a man whose enemies, if he had any, were not of his own making. He enjoyed the respect and confidence of his many acquaintances and his death will be mourned by many.

Mr. Dunn was seventy-five years of age and was one of the Dunn family that settled in Janesville in 1844. The deceased's brother, John Dunn, was closely connected with the business interests of the city up till his demise in 1872. Martin Dunn is survived by a widow, one son Charles Dunn, a sister, Mrs. Carroll of Monroe and relatives at both St. Paul and Milwaukee.

"WHOLE FAMILY"

A while ago a lady consulted Dr. Richards about teeth.

He made her a full upper and lower set.

Some time later she came in with two grown and married daughters.

Said she, "Dr. Richards, you did such satisfactory work in my mouth that I have brought my two daughters to you."

"All their teeth are bad and I am giving them each a present of a new set of teeth."

"If you please them as well as you did me it will be all O. K."

Well, Dr. Richards made them all new teeth.

They are simply delighted, as President Roosevelt is quoted as expressing himself.

Since then they have sent him their friends also.

BECAME DESPONDENT AND ENDED HER LIFE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 13.—Miss Mary Schellander, a servant girl 20 years old, killed herself this morning with a .32 caliber revolver at the home of Theodore Frey. She was despondent because her employer and his family were about to leave for Europe on a long visit. Among the girl's belongings the coroner found a violin valued at about $2,000. She came from Austria about a year ago bringing the instrument with her. It was an heirloom in her family.

CURRENT ITEMS.

Meet on Monday: The Associated Charities will hold a meeting at the Park Pharmacy Monday afternoon at the usual time. This time the call is for boys' clothing, as they have fitted out quite a number and are short on this line. Pants and coats for boys are most needed just now.

Is Improved: Detective John W. Cowan of the C. M. & St. P. railway secret service, who was shot in the leg while attempting to arrest a would-be trainwrecker at Anderson's crossing on the night of March 21, went to Chicago today, having recovered sufficiently to be about on crutches.

F. & A. M.: Janesville Lodge No. 55, F. & A. M., will hold a special communication at Masonic Temple Monday evening, with work in E. A. Entertainment at M. E. Church.

On Monday night will occur the entertainment given by Prof. Olson and Lelia Mae Ayers of Rockford, assisted by the young ladies of the Epworth League, in pantomime. An excellent entertainment is assured by those who have heard these talented people.

Emery Phelps Convalescing: Thanks to the excellent care of the Sisters, Emery Phelps, the first charity patient taken to the Mercy Hospital under the new management, at the direction of Dr. Charles Utherland, is progressing rapidly toward complete recovery from the grave complication of pneumonia and delirium tremens which first drew him into the padded cell of the dumpy jail.

Woman in Lockup: Mrs. Mary Shea of Freeport, discouraged over her failure to secure a position as housekeeper which she applied for here in answer to an advertisement, sought refuge in "the cup that cheers" and had to be taken to the lock-up last evening. She was still there this afternoon and seemed to be greatly bewildered and confused regarding what had taken place, insisting that she was not in the habit of partaking of strong drink. The attention of the police was called to her case by a telephone message from a confectionery store on West Milwaukee street, into which she had wandered. She is about 40 years of age.

Marriage License: Clyde B. Gates of Hebron, Ill., and Hylah Ray Eldredge of Beloit have filed application for a marriage license at the office of the county clerk.

Blow Down Billboards: Last night's blizzard blew down the billboards at the corner of Milwaukee and South Academy streets.

Tramp Shepherd Dog: For several days past a tramp shepherd dog has been anxiously looking for its owner in the stream of pedestrians which hourly passes the intersection of Milwaukee and Main streets. Every time a woman and a little child come by the poor creature bounds joyfully toward them, only to find his quest is in vain. One of the hind legs is partially disabled, indicating that the dog was run over by a vehicle, and this probably explains how he came to lose track of "the home folks."

W. J. Semelroth of Appleton, Wis., will speak to men at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Y. M. C. A. Subject: "The Making of a Man." Mr. Semelroth is a strong, forceful speaker. He has traveled through Europe and has acquired a large experience among men. All men are urged to attend the meeting from three to four o'clock.

ARGUMENTS ENDED IN TALLMAN CASE

Judge Grimm Took Under Advisement Question of the Piffred Telescope—Some of its Contents.

Arguments were concluded in circuit court this morning in the action brought by George Tallman to recover $89.35 from the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. for the loss of the portion of the contents of a telescope left in the baggage-room on the night of June 24, 1906, and Judge Grimm took the case under advisement. The plaintiff claims the railroad company is liable as a common carrier while the railroad company claims that since the owner surrendered the duplicate check in order that the baggage might be removed from the premises at any time, it could only be held responsible for taking ordinary warehouse precautions.

Mr. Tallman was returning from his summer home at Lake Koshkonong on the Sunday night in question and the telescope contained among the various things which turned up missing: One Marlin rifle, 5 pounds of candy, 1 Colt's automatic revolver, one Kent hairbrush imported from England, one cravenette coat, one very fine comb, one very fine toothbrush, a rifle case, a box of Havana cigars, a hunting knife, and two buckles. Judge Grimm returned to Jefferson this noon and will be back Monday.

Some thirty young people will banquet at the new M. G. Jeffris residence on East street this evening. Those present will be the members of the first and second boys and girls' teams of the high school and their substitutes. An elaborate menu has been arranged and this will be served at half past six o'clock. After the supper there will be a mock dance and other amusements. The party is to be chaperoned by Miss Abbie Terry and William Vlyman of the high school faculty.

In the absence of Mrs. Ogden H. Fethers of this city, Mrs. Walter Kepster of Milwaukee will be the Wisconsin representative at the D. A. R. convention in Washington next week. Mrs. Fethers is the state regent of the order.

Mrs. Lorin G. Catchpole went to Black River Falls, Wis., yesterday for a week's visit with relatives. Her brother, whom she had not seen for seven years, is also a guest there.

Mrs. Casper Page and Mrs. Ed. Crowley of Chicago Heights are the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erdman, 567 Pleasant street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deveraux will be guests of his sister, Mrs. A. E. Dixon, in Evansville over Sunday.

"Reciprocity day" is being observed by the Janesville Philomathian club this afternoon. The twenty members were entertained by Mrs. A. C. Hough at her residence, 100 St. Lawrence avenue, and among the guests were several club women from out of the city. At three o'clock a program arranged by Mrs. A. C. Hough, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. C. J. Myhr, president of the club, was inaugurated. Papers were read by Mrs. Richardson of Evansville, chairman of the reciprocity committee of the first district federation of women's clubs, by Mrs. Coulton, also of Evansville, and Mrs. Walter Helms of this city. Mrs. Helms' paper was prepared by Mrs. Cook of Whitewater. A dramatic reading by Miss Mina Cutter lent diversity to the program. At five o'clock Mrs. Hough is to entertain at luncheon, a tempting three-course menu having been prepared.

ANSWER WAS A STINGER.

Cruel Rejoinder to Question of Impassioned Woman.

A Detroit woman said of the late Gen. Russell A. Alger: "In company with a half dozen other women—a committee, in fact—I once waited on Gen. Alger to try and interest him in woman suffrage. He was interested. He admitted the truth of many of our arguments. But in the matter of supporting us he would not go so far as we wanted him to go. One of our ladies got, I am afraid, a little over-excited. In her address to the general, she imputed to woman more virtues than any merely human creature could possess. And the height of her eloquence Gen. Alger, chuckling, interrupted her. He said he had once attended a woman suffrage meeting where the lady lecturer on the platform had boasted about woman as this lady was doing. The lecturer, he said, ended a striking climax with the question, 'Where would man be if it had not been for woman?' She looked around the crowded hall. The silence was intense. She raised her hand and cried again impressively: 'I repeat, where would man be if it had not been for woman?' Then a coarse voice from the rear replied: 'In Paradise, ma'am!'"

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry bark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe obstinate hang-over chronic coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs (it is not so effective). It is in the lingering hang-over coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine: "In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Having a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon indigestion. It dissolves stomach acids, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of the stomach). It relieves many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity. Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood, curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the nature and uses of this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it."

AUTHOR OF
"THE CAST
THE DELUGE,
ETC."

"I'm not sure of that," was my reply. "It would have been useless to have found him out sooner. And if he had hidden himself until later, he might have done us some serious mischief."

As he was the president-elect, to go to him uninvited would have been an affront to his dignity as well as to mine. A few days later I wrote him, thanking him for his message and inquiring about my illness.

And saying that I was once more taking part in affairs. He did not reply by calling me up on the telephone, as he would have done in his cordial, intimate years preceding his graduation. Instead he sent a telegram of congratulation, following it with a note. He urged me to go south, as I had planned, and stay until I was fully restored. I shall deny myself the pleasure of seeing you until you return.

That sentence put off our meeting indefinitely—I could see him smiling at its audacity as he wrote it.

But he made his state of mind even clearer. His custom had been to begin his notes: "Dear Harvey," or "Dear Saylor," and to end them "Yours sincerely, James E. Burbank." As I stared at these phrases my blood steamed to my brain. "Had he spat in my face my fury would have been less. 'So!' I thought in the first gust of anger, 'you feel that you have been using me, that you have no further use for me. You have decided to take the advice of those idiotic independent newspapers and wash your hands of the corruptionist who almost defeated you.'"

To make war upon him was in wisdom impossible—even had I wished. And when anger flowed away and pity and contempt succeeded, I really did not wish to war upon him. But there was Goodrich—the real corruptionist, the wreck of my plans and hopes, the menace to the future of the party. I sent for Woodruff, and together we mapped out a campaign against the senior senator from New Jersey in all the newspapers we could control or influence. I gave him a free hand to use—with his unfailing discretion, of course—all the facts we had accumulated to Goodrich's discredit. I put at his disposal a hundred thousand dollars. As every available dollar of the party fund had been used in the campaign, I advanced this money out of my own pocket.

And I went cheerfully away to Palm Beach, there to watch at my ease the rain of shot and shell upon my enemy.

CHAPTER XXVII. A Domestic Discard.

After a month in the south, I was well again—youthful in feeling and in looks, than I had been for ten years. Carlotta and the children, except "Junior," who was in college, had gone to Washington when I went to Florida. I found her abed with a nervous attack from the double strain of the knowledge that Junior had eloped with an "impossible" woman he had met. I shall not say where, and of the effort of keeping the calamity from me until she was sure he had really entangled himself hopelessly.

She was now sitting among her pillows, telling the whole story. "If he hadn't married her!" she ended.

This struck me as ludicrous—a good woman citing to her son's discredit the fact that he had goodness' own ideals of honor.

"What are you laughing at?" she demanded.

"I was about to tell her I was home."

What Would You Do

If three good physicians should pronounce your case hopeless. If they should decide that you could not live longer than six weeks. And if you should get well, after using only $12.00 worth of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerveine, what would you advise a friend in like condition to do?

"I have to thank you for saving my wife's life two years ago," the continued, with the doctor, until the third doctor, like the two previous ones, said that nothing could be done for her; that she had better be taken home from the hospital to quietly wait her time, which would not be over six weeks at the most. I brought her home, and then I thought, probably Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerveine might help her, so I got a bottle of each and some Nerveine and Liver Pills, and commenced to give them to her. We soon seen an improvement, and encouraged by this we continued giving the medicine. We gave her eleven bottles in all of the medicine. She takes it occasionally now if she feels the need, and the ministry, and have been for 44 years."

ful of the boy chiefly because he had thus shown the splendid courage that more than redeems folly. But I refrained. I had never been able to make Carlotta understand me or my ideas, and I had long been weary of the resentful silence or angry tirades which mental and temperamental misunderstandings produce.

"What can be expected?" she went on, after trying in vain to connect my remark with our conversation. "A boy needs a father. You've been so busy with your infamous politics that you've given him scarcely a thought."

Painfully true, throughout; but it was one of those criticisms we can hardly endure even when we make it upon ourselves. I was silent.

"I've no patience with men!" she went on. "They're always meddling with things that would get along better without them, and letting their own patch run to weeds."

"Unanswerable," I held my peace. "What are you going to do about it, Harvey?" How can you be so calm? Isn't there anything that would rouse you?"

"I'm too busy thinking what to do to waste any energy in blowing off steam," was my answer in my consolatory tone.

"But there's nothing we can do," she retorted, with increasing anger, which vented itself toward me because the true culprit, fate, was not within reach.

"Precisely," I agreed. "Nothing."

"That creature won't let him come to see me."

"And you mustn't see him when he sends for you," said I. "He'll come as soon as his money gives out. She'll see that he does."

"But you aren't going to cut him off?"

"Just that," said I.

A long silence, then I added in answer to her expression: "And you must not let him have a cent, either."

In a gust of anger, probably at my having read her thoughts, she blurted out: "One would think it was your money."

I had seen that thought in her eyes, had watched her hold it back behind her set teeth, many times in our married years. And I now thanked my stars I had had the prudence to get ready for the inevitable moment when she would speak it. But at the same time I could not restrain a flush of shame. "It is my money," I forced myself to say. "Ask your brother. He'll tell you what I've forbidden him to tell before—that I have twice rescued you and him from bankruptcy."

"With our own money," she retorted, hating herself for saying it, but goaded on by a devil that lived in her temper and had got control many a time, though never before when I happened to be the one with whom she was at outs.

"No—with my own," I replied tranquilly.

"Your own!" she sneered. "Every dollar you have has come through what you got by marrying me. Where would you be if you hadn't married me? You know very well. You'd still be fighting poverty as a small lawyer in Polaski, married to Betty Crosby or whatever her name was." And she burst into hysterical tears. At last she was showing me the secrets that had been tearing at her, was showing me her heart where they had torn.

Led to Humorous Error.

Capt. Amundsen, having lost several dogs in his expedition to the Arctic regions, told some of the Netchillie tribe that he would purchase one from them. The suggestion caused consternation and was promptly refused. The man's explanation was demanded. The man explained to returned next day with a chubby, laughing boy on his back. "Such we do not sell," he said, and Amundsen was astonished. "You wished to purchase one," said the man seeing Amundsen's perplexity. Finally it was discovered that the Greenlandic term for "dog" was equivalent to "child" in the Netchillie language.

Go to England to Marry.

Every year from 800 to 1,200 couples go to England from the continent, mostly from Germany, to get married. To comply with the conditions of the English law the bride usually comes over first, stays one night in a hotel and gives notice of the marriage on the following day. Then the man arrives and the ceremony takes place. It is generally by license, as otherwise both would have to be in England for four weeks.

When Will Janesville People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first; but when you know 'tis from the kidneys; that serious kidney troubles follow; that dull, aching, bright's disease may be the fatal one. You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Janesville citizen.

Mrs. W. Johnson of 127 Pearl St., Janesville, Wis., says: "For a long time I had severe pains in my back that I have been due to some disorder of the kidneys. It was almost constant aching and misery in the small of my back and became so severe at times that I was almost prostrated. Numerous remedies that I tried failed to help me and finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills which I had seen highly recommended by local people, procured at the People's Drug company. After using this remedy for a short time I found a complete cure, and the trouble has not returned."

Don't Cry; Go Eat.

"I don't cry any more about anything," said the bachelor-girl. "When I get so sad I don't know what to do I go out and get me something to eat. A little fellow I was very fond of once taught me that. He asked me to take luncheon with him to talk over a quarrel we were having. During the talking over I got to crying. I cried all over my fish. He ordered me some more fish and scooped me while they were getting it ready. 'Never cry, Frances,' he said, 'as long as you've got a good luncheon or dinner before you, it isn't worth while.' No. I never saw him again, but whenever I want to cry I think of him and get me something good to eat instead."

MANITOWOC'S BOOM COMING THIS YEAR

Manitowoc, Wis., April 13.—The Pittsburg Coal Co. of Wisconsin, with general offices at Superior, Wis., have purchased the holdings of the Central Dock Co. at Ashland and Manitowoc. Four big new coal docks will be built here. The Wisconsin Central railway has decided to erect new warehouses and sheds here. This means an expenditure of over half a million in Manitowoc by the two companies.

In return for the work to be done by the Pittsburg Coal Co. the city will expend $50,000 for dredging and similar work. The C. Reiss Coal Co. of Sheboygan and Manitowoc expects to put up several large coal and ore docks here at the close of navigation next fall. The Reiss Co. recently acquired an interest in the Pittsburg Co., which operates docks at Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Escanaba, Mich., and Ashland, Wis. The election of officers of the Reiss Co. resulted as follows: President, P. Reiss; vice-president and treasurer, J. P. Reiss; and secretary, W. A. Reiss.
